

Zahid Asghar -Chief Executive, COMCON
Consultant Trainer & a Coach

He believes in winning trainees emotionally & logically.

The training & coaching sessions shall bring about a change in the hearts and minds leading to improvement in personal and organisational effectiveness

The core strength which sets his training sessions apart from others is a deep rooted sense of reality and ensuring engagement and result orientation through actions. His realisation that the thoughts and material that are discussed or given shall be ready for application and not reside on shelves after the event

What makes him different is his ability to connect very quickly, to the perspectives and stresses of different stake holders develop material specifically to meet organizational needs and make his sessions memorable for achieving agreed goals & objectives. During the individual & organizational development processes have closely worked with employees at different tiers from MD to GMs and with work - field forces on and off the job as their trainer & coach.
